Big Book of Gifts

Celebrity Wheels

$1,500<sup>00</sup> The PhunkeeDuck, which goes up to 12 mph, is the preferred hands-free scooter (just don't call it a hoverboard) of Justin Bieber and Chris Brown (phunkeeduck.com).

Two-Tone Vuitton

$3,550<sup>00</sup> Louis Vuitton's City Steamer comes in minimalist color-blocked calf-skin and has a detachable strap as well as lots of room for work files (1 E. 57th St.).

Royal Cuffs

FROM
$600,000<sup>00</sup>

These bracelets, composed of carved chalcedon, sapphires, and diamonds, were made for Wallis Simpson, a.k.a. the Duchess of Windsor. They'll be auctioned on December 9 (sothebys.com).

Royal Tiara

$1,100<sup>00</sup> A 1930s crystal bridal crown similar to the one Kate Middleton wore to her wedding (1stdibs.com).

Nirvana Cardigan

$2,450<sup>00</sup>

If Kurt Cobain had worn Saint Laurent by Hedi Slimane (3 E. 57th St.; 212-980-2970).

Bike for One

$4,999<sup>00</sup> The electric Gocycle G2, the brainchild of a former design engineer at McLaren, just won a coveted Red Dot award. It's super-light and can be folded down to the size of a suitcase (nycewheels.com).

Bike for Three

$2,836<sup>00</sup> An apartment-friendly cargo bike (it's only 16 inches longer than normal ones) that can be customized to lug around your stuff or two of your kids (porterlight.com).

Editor's Pick The Fuji X-T1

$1,400<sup>00</sup>

(bhphotovideo.com)

"This camera has the image quality that you'd traditionally find in a DSLR, but in a much more compact system. It has a real weight and quality to it—as opposed to the light plastic feel of most cameras. And it's also a bargain compared to similar Leica models. Everything's taken care of but the pictures—which are up to the eye of the beholder."

—JODY QUON, photography director

Collage Art

$3,500<sup>00</sup>

Abstract painter (and Arthur Miller's fiancée during the last years of his life) Agnes Barley creates delicate, nature-inspired collages from painted paper cutouts; this one's called Untitled Collage (Birds & Spores) (searspayton.com).
